

Big Back

Carry More, Worry Less

Presented by
Michaella Bigot & Paige Macias

Our product

What is your product?

- Our product is a tactical military backpack

Who is it for?

- Our product is for military personnel

What problem does it solve?

- These military backpacks provide the durability and capacity needed for important supplies during extended operations

Our Design

Explain your design choices

(why is it relevant to your product/how is it appealing to consumers)

- We chose to use a simple backpack design with a military feel to it.
- The logo also features the signature dark green that's often associated with the military.
- There are military stars at the side to illustrate who our product is being made for.
- It's perfect for appealing to our consumers, since our logo leans into the army theme

Pricing

What is your price?

- $80-$120 per backpack

Is it expensive or affordable?

- Our backpacks are moderately priced. It's not cheap, but worth it for the high quality gear you're getting

Why did you choose this price?

- We chose this price because our backpacks are built with durable, military-grade materials
- We also offer discounts for purchasing in bulk

Demand

Who wants your product?

- Active military personnel
- Training recruits
- Anyone in law enforcement

Why do they want it?

- They need our reliable storage, especially in harsh environments
- Provides comfort during long use
- Prefer gear that match military standards

Supply

Is your product easy or hard to make?

- They are difficult to make because strong materials are needed and they have a specialized design

Will there be a lot or a little supply?

Why?

- There will be a lot of supply to keep up with the demand of departments that would buy in bulk for all their active members

Shifter

Which of the shifter best would move demand (up or down) for YOUR product

- Taste/preferences: military personnel prefer more tactical and efficient gear = demand goes up
- Number of consumers: military size increasing = demand goes up

Why should people buy your product?

- People should buy our product because they are durable, long-lasting, designed for military needs, comfortable, and cost-effective when bought in bulk. Our backpacks provide long-term value and are practical for any assignment